

Construction claims, building and site safety, and more

Jessica Stephens QC recently joined the construction disputes team at Womble Bond Dickinson for a conference discussing current trends in the construction industry. Hot topics at the moment are legal developments affecting claims, time and cost claims, loss and expense claims, building safety, and health and safety.

An article reviewing the content covered, as well as the Q&A session that followed is now available online. A recording is also available by request.
